Travel Is Evolving. So Is the Opportunity.

The way people experience the world is changing.

Across travel, entertainment, dining, and lifestyle, consumers are moving away from fragmented loyalty programs and transactional booking platforms toward something more meaningful: access, connection, and experiences that feel personal.

The modern traveler is not looking for more points. They are looking for a platform that feels aligned with how they want to live.

At the same time, the model for how people participate in the brands they love is evolving. Membership-driven platforms are reshaping entertainment, hospitality, wellness, and lifestyle. People increasingly want to belong to something, not just buy from it.

Travel is at the center of that shift.

And for the first time, individual investors have the opportunity to participate in it.

As travel, membership,
and lifestyle platforms
continue to converge,
NextTrip Privilege
was built to participate in that shift.

The System Was Never Built for You.

Think about the last time a loyalty system actually rewarded you the way it promised.

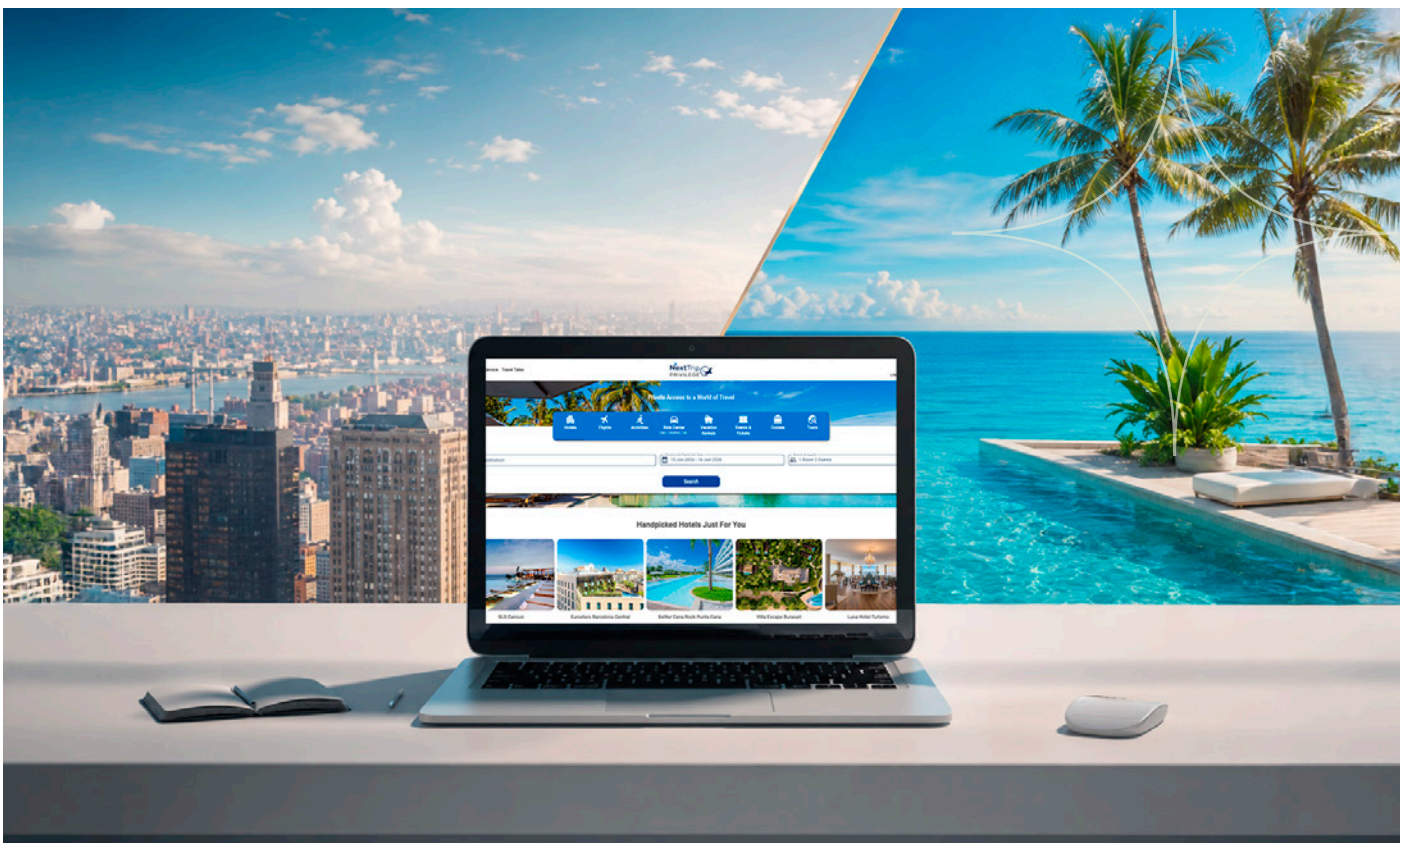

Points that seemed valuable until you tried to use them. Redemption windows that closed before you could act. Blackout dates. Expiration notices. Another platform asking you to start over.

For decades, travel and entertainment loyalty was built around one objective: keeping consumers engaged with the platform. Not around delivering experiences that felt genuinely rewarding.

The result is a fragmented system most consumers have learned to navigate rather than enjoy. Multiple memberships. Disconnected accounts. Rewards that feel more like obstacles than benefits.

Consumers have not stopped wanting to travel. They have stopped believing the platforms designed to serve them are actually built for them.

That is the gap NextTrip Privilege was designed to close.

A Platform Built Around You.

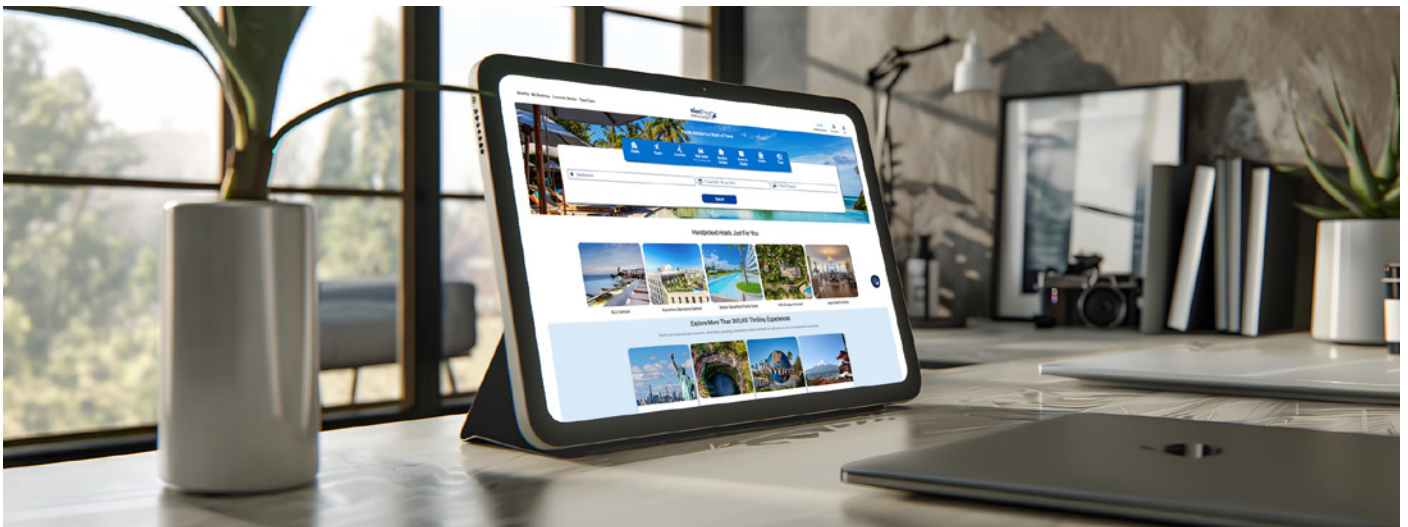

NextTrip Privilege was designed around a different idea entirely.

Not another booking platform. Not another points program. A travel and entertainment club built around access, membership, and the opportunity to participate in the platform itself.

Members can explore hotels, resorts, cruises, entertainment experiences, tours, and lifestyle opportunities through a single connected platform designed around convenience, discovery, and access that feels genuinely elevated.

But what makes NextTrip Privilege different is not simply what it offers members.

It is who it was built for.

Access Others Cannot Offer.

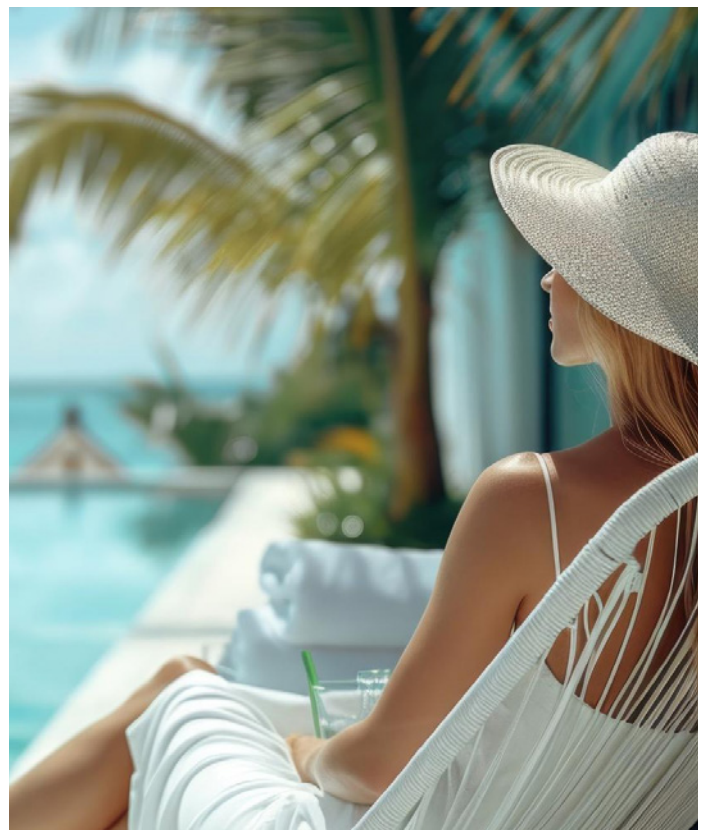

NextTrip Privilege is built around a category of access that goes beyond standard booking rates or discount programs.

Through the platform, members can explore more than 3 million travel and entertainment options worldwide through a curated experience designed to feel seamless, elevated, and flexible.

Hotels. Resorts. Entertainment. Experiences. Travel opportunities organized around the modern lifestyle consumer.

The platform is not designed to feel like a search engine. It is designed to feel like a relationship.

One where access improves, options expand, and the experience becomes more connected over time.

This Is Where It Gets Different.

Most travel platforms ask for one thing: your business.

NextTrip Privilege was built to offer something more.

Investors who participate in the offering receive:

- Equity ownership in NextTrip Privilege
- Membership access within the platform
- Room Coins redeemable toward hotel stay discounts only.

This is the distinction that separates NextTrip Privilege from every loyalty program, booking platform, or travel club in the market.

Instead of simply using the platform, investors have the opportunity to own a piece of it.

The relationship shifts from consumer to participant. From member to stakeholder.

Limited Investor Access Is Now Open.

Ownership begins at $1,000.

Target Raise:
Up to $15,000,000.

This window will not stay open indefinitely.

This Is Where You Belong.

Travel and entertainment have always been about more than destinations. They are about how experiences make people feel.

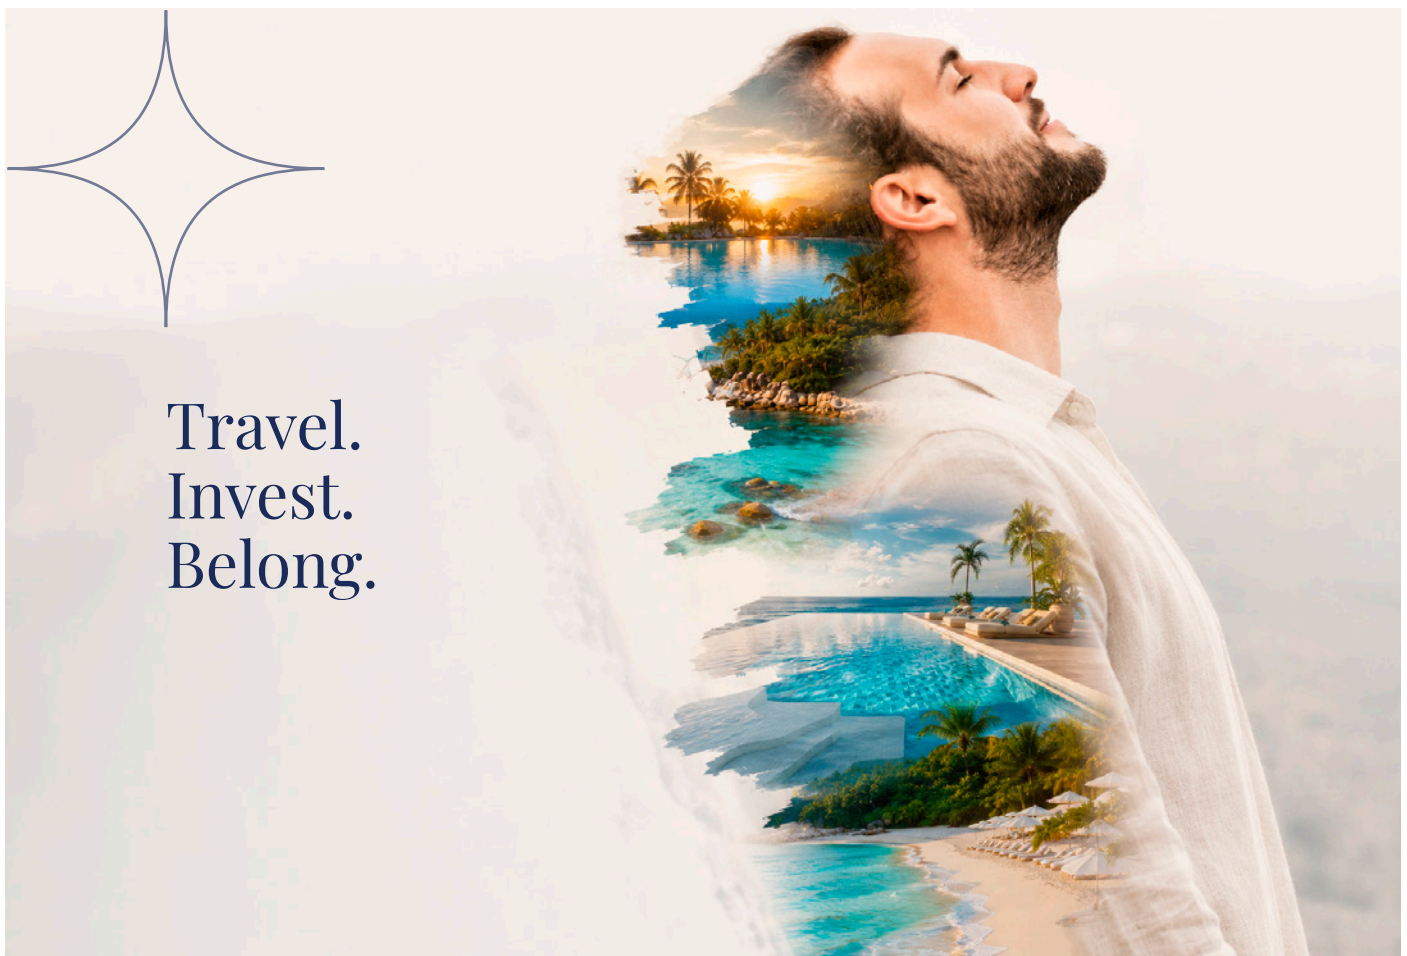

Connected. Seen. Part of something worth showing up for.

NextTrip Privilege was built around that conviction.

The platform was designed to close the distance between the experience of traveling and the experience of belonging to something that rewards you for it. To give individual investors access to an opportunity that has historically been out of reach.

Not another booking tool. Not another membership card.

A travel and entertainment club designed around access, participation, and the opportunity to be part of what comes next.

Travel.
Invest.
Belong.
